and Diamond said nothing. "Have you had any ideas of what you want to do?" there was enough, was all. Once there in the Grove she had no thought of earning, or deserving, or even of learning. To be there was enough, was all. To bring the past along with us through time in the hold-alls of myth and history is a heavy. Wordless at first, he simply shook his head. It cost her something to say that, yet when she had said it she felt released, untied too. What was she keeping Bren's shoes for, anyhow? They were too small for Berry and too big for her. She'd given away his clothes, but kept the shoes, she didn't know what for. For this fellow, it would seem. Things came round if you could wait for them, she thought. When he was away, she was quiet-voiced and even-tempered, having learned the uselessness of impatience in the work that must be done. Sometimes she still scowled, sometimes she smiled, but she did not laugh. When she could, she went to the Grove alone, as she had always done. But in these years of the building of the House and the founding of the school, she could go there seldom, and even then she might take a couple of students to learn with her the ways through the forest and the patterns of the leaves; for she was the Patterner..long solitudes among the trees, always sought form and clarity, and she said, "How can we teach.Great House, all the mages, many of the students. He spent all that day drowsing before the fire with the grey cat, while Gift went in and out at her work, offering him food several times-poor, coarse food, but he ate it all, slowly, valuing it. That made sense to her. On Way, "a wizard without his porridge" meant something unprecedented, unheard-of. He took the shortcut at Rissi's well and came out before midday on Semere's high pasture, a level step on the mountainside.
